DID YOU KNOW?

An audiologist is a university educated and licensed professional who is qualified to diagnose and treat hearing and balance disorders, including hearing loss and tinnitus, in people of all ages.

Visit nscaslp.ca to verify the qualifications of any Nova Scotia based audiologist.
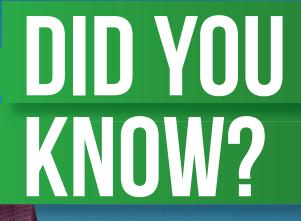

DID YOU KNOW?

A speech-language pathologist is a university educated and licensed professional who is qualified to diagnose and treat communication disorders (such as speech, language, voice and stuttering) and swallowing disorders in people of all ages.

Visit nscaslp.ca to verify the qualifications of any Nova Scotia based speech-language pathologist.

DID YOU KNOW?

If you have a safety or quality of care concern about a licensed audiologist or speech-language pathologist, you can contact The Nova Scotia College of Audiologists and Speech-Language Pathologists. The College can hold professionals accountable to the applicable laws and standards of practice.

NOVA SCOTIA COLLEGE OF AUDIOLOGISTS AND SPEECH-LANGUAGE PATHOLOGISTS

Visit nscaslp.ca to verify the qualifications of any Nova Scotia based audiologist or speech-language pathologist.